The Glossary of Intelligence Terms and Definitions is, we believe, a useful document particularly for new employees and for establishing commonly understood terms and abbreviations dealing with other members of the Intelligence Community.

We believe that the document is appropriately controlled and need not be classified. If you would like our people in Regulations Control Division to give you their professional opinion on this aspect of the publication, please let me know.

It is not appropriate to have conflicting definitions in the Glossary and, for this reason, we suggest that it be revised.
